Picnic Luncheon Saturday—
 There will be a picnic luncheon given in the W. O. W. hall Saturday afternoon at the close of the regular business meetings of General Logan Post and Corps. Every corps member is requested to be present with a well filled basket. Tables will be arranged and hot coffee served. All Civil war veterans and members of either order who may be visiting in the city are cordially invited to be present.

Last Peaches—
 This will be your last chance to get peaches. For the next few days you can get some nice Salways at the Josephine Grocery company. 874

Entertain Teachers—
 The visiting teachers were entertained yesterday afternoon with an auto ride and a supper. When the session had finished the teachers were taken to the sugar factory and upon their return from that place were taken to the Methodist church, where the first course of a progressive dinner was served. From there they went down Sixth street and past the Josephine hotel to the Presbyterian church, where dinner was spread. The line of march then took them to the guild hall, where the last course was served. After the supper they went to the opera house to hear Senator Chamberlain.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Geo. Cronk

Mrs. Geo. Cronk, a pioneer of Grants Pass, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Wilcox, at 439 West G street, Wednesday, October 11, of heart failure, the deceased being in the 74th year of her life.

Mrs. Cronk, whose maiden name was Ida Victoria Shephardson, was born in Trumble county, Ohio, October 21, 1842. She came to Grants Pass from Minnesota with her family 27 years ago, and has since made this city her home. Her husband preceded her to the great beyond, having died six years ago. One daughter, Mrs. Olive Wilcox, survives.

The funeral services will be held Friday, at two o'clock in the afternoon, at the family residence at 429 West G street.

HON. A. E. CLARK AND MRS. KENT TO SPEAK

Friday night, at the opera house, Hon. A. E. Clark, one of the best of Oregon's orators, will open the campaign for the republicans, speaking under the auspices of the county central committee. The meeting will be of especial interest, following as it does the Chamberlain meeting, and the arguments of the senior senator will be met and combated by the forceful Clark.

At the same meeting will appear Mrs. William Kent, of California, and Mrs. Margaret Fay Whittemore, of Detroit, Michigan. Mrs. Kent is the wife of Congressman Kent, national chairman of the Woodrow Wilson Independent league, but she is speaking as a progressive and a supporter of Hughes. Mrs. Whittemore will arrive in the city tonight, and will arrange for a woman's meeting tomorrow afternoon, when she will discuss the national suffrage question.

TEACHERS HEAR SUPT. CHURCHILL

The opening speech at the general assembly at the teachers' institute today was delivered by State Superintendent Churchill, following an interesting song session. Mr. Churchill spoke of the teachers' retirement fund, a proposed fund to be composed of five per cent of each teacher's salary. Under this plan, the fund would be deposited with the state treasury, to be disbursed to the teachers who had completed 30 years of service. The fund would be augmented by an additional amount from the state. If teachers left the profession before the end of the 30 years, their money would be returned to them with two per cent interest. Miss Fox, of the department of the interior, spoke upon the "National Council of Teachers of Primary Reading." This organization includes teachers of the first three grades. Miss Fox argued that standardization had done more for the schools of the nation than anything else. The naturally bright child, instead of the dull one, is to be made a study by the general educational board this year, said Miss Fox, the bright child being able to complete the eight-year course in two and one-half years less time than the dull one, if given a chance.

The principal address at the Wednesday afternoon session of the general assembly was by Dr. DeBusk, of the University of Oregon. The subject dealt with the "Progress of the Boy." He advised that if the boy is failing, to look into his size, strength, the food he is receiving, and the rest he is getting. Often a failure could be solved with the right kind of food, said the speaker.

The programs of the various departments have been filled with papers and addresses of the deepest interest to the teacher-students, while there is enough of music and entertainment and jollity intermixed to add spice to all of the sessions.

CHAMBERLAIN SPEAKS

 Mexican questions. There will be no war while Wilson is president, said Mr. Chamberlain. Then he qualified the statement by saying "if he can keep out of war with honor." All through the address Chamberlain held up the phantom of war should Wilson be repudiated on November 7, though he stated that all presidents in all time had used the same methods for keeping out of war.

In summing up his argument, Senator Chamberlain said that neither peace nor war, the eight-hour day or the income tax was the issue in the present campaign. The issue, he said, was the issue of invisible government—the attempt of the "power that stands behind the Smoots and the Gallingers to get back the reins of government."

The senator was accorded considerable applause during the course of his address, though it took the form of only mild outbursts of hand-clapping, and it was evident that the audience was made up of as many republicans as democrats. Chamberlain, in his usual smooth and diplomatic manner, paid his respects to the republicans who had left their party to keep him in office for 17 years, but did the job so nicely that those of his own party could take no offense.
